

Diamond Drill

Out of the Past

November 6, 1958

For the first time in many years, Crystal Falls High School students will not present what has been looked forward to as an annual event, the school play. The curtain on the stage of the City Hall auditorium will collect dust for at least another year. The annual production, staged for years by the members of the Crystal Falls senior class has in recent years become an all high school affair. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Newell, producers of the show, state that lack of interest by students is the reason given for this year's cancellation.

If you see our lower Superior Avenue tonsorial artist, Mike Stanko, walking when he normally would be riding it won't be because his car is broke down. Mike got clipped by a crow, Bunzo Dalpra's household pet "Chester", when the barber displayed his car keys in a devil-may-care fashion to entice the bird on Superior Avenue. The obliging pet sidled up for a closer look and snatched the fascinating trinket in its beak whereupon it flew off to Marquette Avenue. A search of the bird's roost revealed no trace of the missing keys and Mike has turned his efforts to finding a locksmith.
