Out of the Past

April 32, 1961

The Guardian Angels Catholic Church rectory (410 Crystal Ave) which has served the Parish for over 60 years is slowly disappearing. The ancient wood frame structure is being demolished by Walter and Philip Skibo who will salvage the materials. The removal of the building will expose for view the new modern stone rectory recently completed and the area will be attractively landscaped.

The Crystal Falls School Board has accepted the resignation of Mrs. Russell Oss from her duties as Board secretary and secretary to the Superintendent. She has been replaced by Mrs. Margaret Swan, a former aid in the office of the Lud Stoor Insurance Agency (21 N. Fifth Street). The Board also amended the School's compulsory retirement policy to provide that all teaching personnel would not have their contracts renewed for the school year which followed their 65th birthday.

THE OLD COMES DOWN to expose the new. The ancient frame building which for over 60 years has served as rectory for the Guardian Angels' Parish is shown nothing more than a hollow shell as Walter and Phillip Skibo tear it down for salvage. When the building is torn completely down, it will expose the modern new stone building that was completed this spring by the parish and which is set far back on the lot, connected to the church by a glassed-in passage. When the last of the old house and its foundation has been cleared away, the lot will be attractively landscaped, to complete the rectory project. (Drill Photo)
