Diamond Drill

Out of the Past

September 22, 1976

The building activity in the new Western Location plat continues to increase with the finishing touches being added to the Dickinson Home being constructed for John Ahola and his wife the former Pat Heimerl (513 Adams). The family expects to occupy the home in early October. Construction continues on the new house being erected by the Forest Park School's Building Trades class (510 Logan).

A Golf Course problem highlighted the Crystal Falls City Council meeting. After considerable discussion the Council approved the payment of a bill ($90.77) submitted by Julius "Hop" Simbob for damage to a storm door on his home (207 Garfield) by a golf ball from the City owned Municipal Golf Course. A fence made of "chicken wire" located north of the Simbob house does not adequately protect property owners from golf balls that either goes directly through the fence or over it. Simbob showed the council members the large amount of golf balls the family has collected from their yard just this year. The Council has requested a study be made to find a solution for the ongoing problem.

JOHN AHOLA is standing alongside his new Dickinson home, erected this summer at the new Western plat, the scene of much building activity over the past few years. John, who is a full-time fireman driver for the city, and his wife, the former Pat Heimerl, expect to move in early in October. Jim Curran was busy installing the plumbing on Monday when this picture was taken.
