September 32, 1898

The military entertainment given at the Opera House (28 Superior) by the soldiers was a success in every sense of the word. It showed camp life and duties of a solier and a few of their pastimes. The program included: Reveille, Field Music, Mess Call (breakfast), Bugle Call, Assembly Call, Guard Mount, Exhibition Drill, Dress Parade, Mess Call (Supper), Roll Call, Call to Quarters and Taps. Immediately after the entertainment the hall was cleared of seats and a dance was given which was attended by sixty couples and all report having a good time.

In a saloon quarrel at Amasa last Saturday night Joe Buck was stabbed by William Bucklin. Sheriff Waite and his deputy John Tromblay went to Amasa Sunday morning to arrest Bucklin, but when they arrived their man could not be found and yet no trace has been found of him. Buck's wounds are not dangerous.

A dancing school will be organized in the Dunn Building (300 Superior). Everyone is invited.
